EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The Longfellow Mill Site is approximately 90 miles south-southeast of El Dorado Hills, California. The property is located in Township 1 South, Range 16 East, Section 30 of the Mount Diablo Meridian in Tuolumne County, California.

The Longfellow Mill is located on public lands managed by the United States Department of Interior, Bureau of Land Management (BLM) Mother Lode Field Office in El Dorado Hills, California. It is in a dilapidated state and is nearby the community of Big Oak Flat, California.

The Longfellow Stamp Mill was built in 1873 and was family operated until the 1890s. Prior to 1899, the Site had yielded 24,200 ounces of gold, which today, would be worth approximately $24,200,000. Mining stopped at the Site around 1948.

In 2004, BLM conducted a preliminary surface soils screening for metals within the tailings. The sampling did not provide conclusive evidence and no further action was taken at the Site.

In 2006, BLM conducted a second sampling effort within the building structure and found elevated levels of heavy metals within the sample survey boundary.

In the summer of 2008, the stamp building burned down, leaving potentially hazardous equipment on Site. BLM fenced the Site in 2008 to prevent access to the mill and debris.

Conclusions

The following entities were identified as potentially responsible parties (PRPs) for the Longfellow Mill Site.

[Note: A party still in existence is identified as “Viable.” A party no longer existing is identified as “Non-Viable.” Parties for whom research results are still pending or undetermined are identified as “Unknown.” The determination of viability does not denote an ability-to-pay. Rather, it only denotes that a PRP or an associated party currently exists. For individuals identified as “Viable,” further research may be needed to ascertain the correct party involved at the Site.]

1.0 INTRODUCTION

On January 8, 2010, Weston Solutions, Inc. (Weston) transmitted a written request to TLI Solutions, Inc. (TLI) to develop a bid for a potentially responsible party (PRP) search for the Longfellow Mill in Tuolumne County, near Big Oak Flat, California. The Longfellow Mill is located on public lands managed by the United States Department of Interior, Bureau of Land Management (BLM) Mother Lode Field Office in El Dorado Hills, California. TLI submitted a cost proposal to Weston on January 11, 2010 and, on May 3, 2010, TLI was notified by Weston that TLI had been awarded the PRP search.

This report is divided into several sections. Section 1.0 provides an Introduction to the Site and project. Section 2.0 provides the Site history including Site background and operational and ownership histories. Section 3.0 identifies the PRPs and summarizes the evidence by which the persons or entities were identified as PRPs. Section 4.0 identifies other parties associated with the Site. Section 5.0 presents conclusions and recommendations for additional research.

Appendix A contains an evidence evaluation sheet for each PRP which includes the basis for identifying them as a PRP and the results of the corporate, individual, and financial research conducted. Appendix B provides a summary of work conducted under this task order and a list of sources contacted. Appendix C contains the document index of the documents collected during the research. Hard copies and images of the scanned supporting documents will be provided on the CD with the final report.

Documents collected through the record review process were assigned a unique document number. References to these supporting documents within this report are made by this document number in parentheses following the sentence(s) to which the reference applies. The document number consists of six digits preceded by the letter A. The first two digits following the letter A identify the source from which the document was obtained. The last four digits of the document number represent the numerical order in which the documents from that source are sequenced. For example, for document number "A04-0003", "A04" references a document collected from the Tuolumne County Recorder, and "0003" reflects the third page in that collection. The following table identifies prefixes used in this report and their sources.

The reader should note that in many cases it was necessary to support a statement of fact with several sources or several pages from a particular source. In these cases, the document numbers were separated by semi-colons or provided as a range (i.e., A02-0002; A03-0008 – A03-0009).

1.1 Site Location

The Longfellow Mill Site is approximately 90 miles south-southeast of El Dorado Hills, California. The Longfellow Mill is located on public lands managed by the BLM Mother Lode Field Office in El Dorado Hills, California. It is in a dilapidated state and is nearby the community of Big Oak Flat, California.

2.0 SITE HISTORY

The following sections present the Site background and the operational and ownership histories of the Site.

2.1 Site Background

The Longfellow Mill Site is approximately 90 miles south-southeast of El Dorado Hills, California (A06-0001). See Figure 1.

The Longfellow Mill is located on public lands managed by the BLM Mother Lode Field Office in El Dorado Hills, California. It is in a dilapidated state and is nearby the community of Big Oak Flat, California (A06-0001).

The Longfellow Stamp Mill was built in 1873 and was family operated until the 1890s (A02-0001; A02-0006; A02-0010). Prior to 1899, the Site had yielded 24,200 ounces of gold, which today, would be worth approximately $24,200,000 (A02-0001). Mining stopped at the Site around 1948 (A06-0001).

In 2004, BLM conducted a preliminary surface soils screening for metals within the tailings (A06-0001). The sampling did not provide conclusive evidence and no further action was taken at the Site (A06-0001).

In 2006, BLM conducted a second sampling effort within the building structure and found elevated levels of heavy metals within the sample survey boundary (A06-0001).

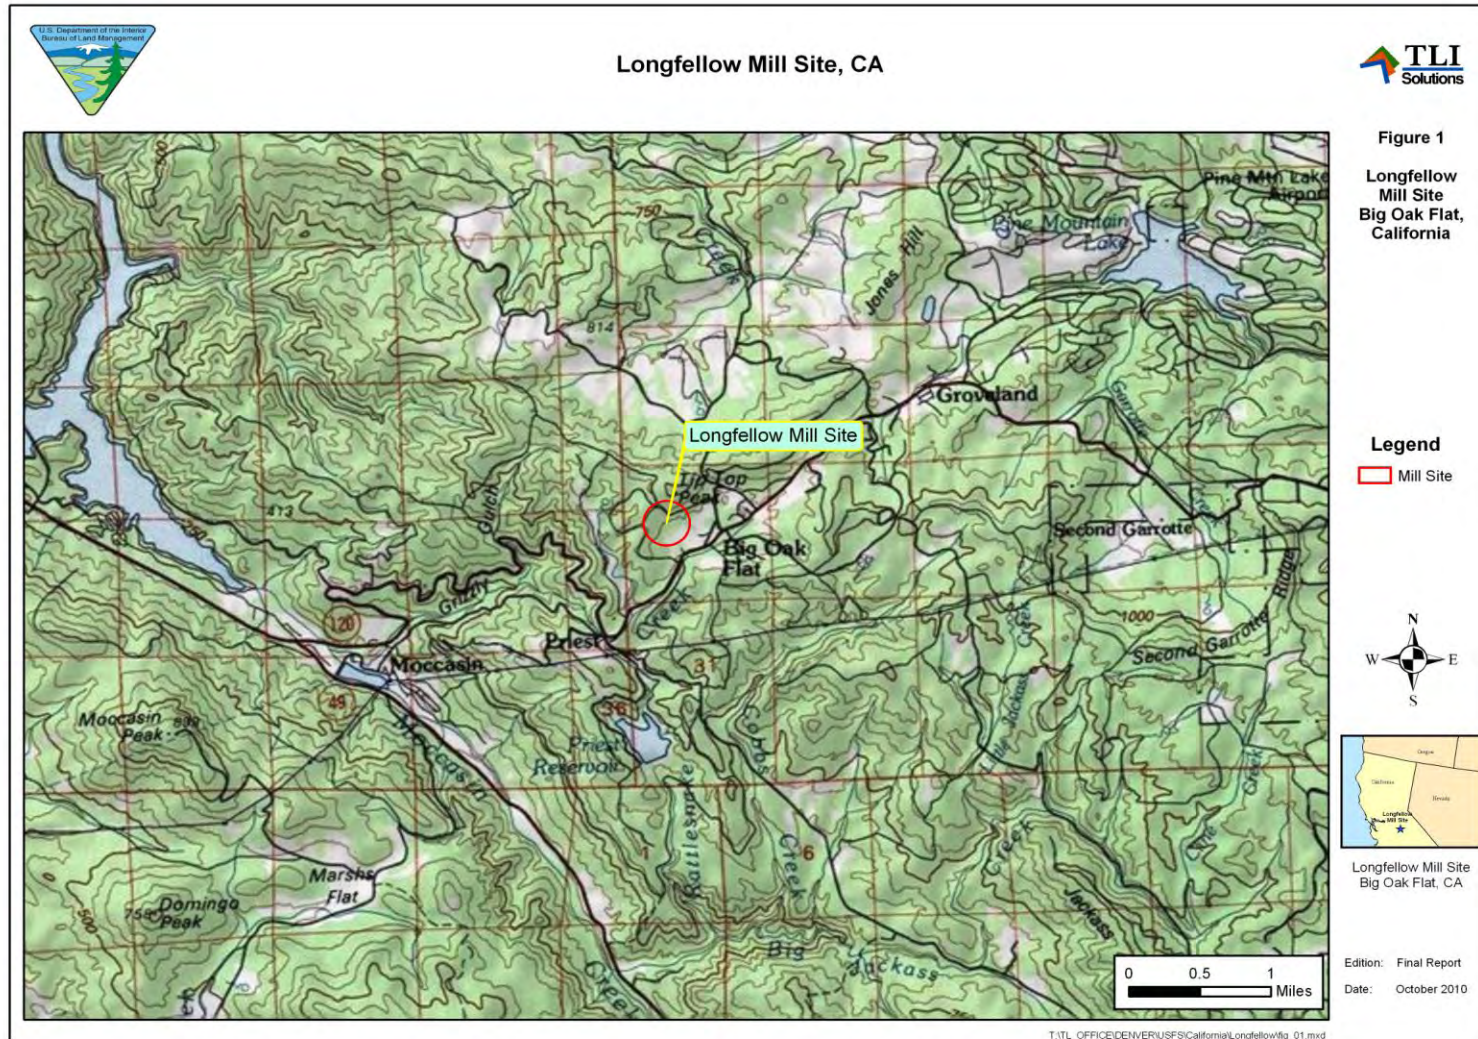

In the summer of 2008, the stamp building burned down, leaving potentially hazardous equipment on Site (A02-0002). BLM fenced the Site in 2008 to prevent access to the mill and debris (A02-0002).

2.2 Operational History

Operational information for this report was primarily provided for the mill; however, some information was obtained regarding surrounding area mines based on the assumption that surrounding area mines may have sent ore to the mill to be processed. The following two subsections provide information on both the mill and the nearby area mines.

2.2.1 Operational History of Longfellow Mill

On September 6, 1862, Stephen Hartny conveyed to D. F. Longfellow a certain house and lot situated in the town of Big Oak Flat (A07-0001). [Note: It is difficult to ascertain the location of the property as described in this deed.]

Privileged and Confidential - Prepared in Anticipation of Litigation

The Longfellow Mill was built in 1873 as a 10-stamp mill and was family owned and operated until the 1890s (A02-0001; A02-0006; A02-0010). After that time, it was reportedly owned by Longfellow Mining Company of San Francisco (A02-0001).

On October 26, 1897, John L. D. Roberts located a 5-acre mill site immediately joining the Longfellow Mining Claim (A04-0002; A07-0008). Prior to 1899, the Longfellow Mine and Mill had yielded 24,200 ounces of gold (A02-0001). The output was estimated to be worth $500,000 at the time (A02-0010).

On September 14, 1899, Monterey Oil Company was incorporated (A07-0007).

On December 4, 1899, Monterey Oil Company changed its corporate name to Monterey Oil Development Company (A07-0007).

By 1899, the Longfellow Mill was running steadily on ore from an old dump and twenty-four men were employed at both the mine and mill (A05-0002). Sources indicated that the mill, after only one week, cleaned up $12,800 and was crushing night and day (A05-0003; A05-0004).

On February 5, 1900, A. P. Dron, President, Longfellow Mining Company amended the location of the Longfellow Mill Site (A07-0003).

In 1900, the surface equipment of the Longfellow Mine consisted of a steam hoist and a 10-stamp mill, with Wilfley and Frue concentrators (A03-0009). A 30-ton cyanide plant was also under construction and expected to be running that year to treat tailings (A03-0009; A05-0006). Longfellow Gold Syndicate of Glasgow was listed as owner with A. P. Dron as superintendent (A03-0009).

On May 22, 1900, A. P. Dron petitioned the Superior Court of Tuolumne County, California to order an official survey and platting and to grant a deed to land in Big Oak Flat in the possession of A. P. Dron (A07-0004). The property consisted of 5 and 43/100 acres and was being used as a mill site by the Longfellow Mine (A07-0004). Improvements made to the property by A. P. Dron included a “slue” (sic) reservoir 40x100 feet, and a steam pump (A07-0004). [Note: Although the document was not dated, the date of May 22, 1900 is assumed based on subsequent documents referring to this petition.]

On May 22, 1900, a Judge of the Superior Court of Tuolumne County, California ordered the Surveyor of Tuolumne County, California to make an Official Survey and Plat of the land requested by A. P. Dron (A07-0005).

In September 1900, Andrew P. Dron requested the Judge of the Superior Court of Tuolumne County, California grant deed to the property petitioned for on May 22, 1900 (A07-0006). [Note: The date was incomplete on the document.]

On January 28, 1901, Jon L. D. Roberts, President, Monterey Oil Development Company filed Second Amended Articles of Incorporation of the Monterey Oil Development Company amending the stockholders of the company (A07-0007).

In October 1901, Andrew P. Dron, President of the Longfellow Mining Company, deeded to the Monterey Mining Company the Longfellow Mine, the Toughnut Mine plus “that certain mill site embracing 5 acres” located and claimed by John L. D. Roberts in October 1897 (A02-0001).

On June 1, 1902, Jno. L. D. Roberts, Monterey Mining Company, amended the location of the Longfellow Mill Site (A07-0008). [Note: This notice indicates that a mill site of A. P. Dron was located directly south of the Longfellow Mill Site.]

On May 26, 1902, Monterey Oil Development Company changed its corporate name to Longfellow Consolidated Gold Mining Company (A07-0009).

By October 1904, the mill was in operation and crushed five tons per stamp per day (A05-0007; A05-0008; A05-0009).

In January 1906, grading at the Longfellow Mill for an additional 10 stamps was being done for a 25-stamp mill (A05-0010). The mill was reportedly being kept in steady operation (A05-0011).

On November 25, 1912, Longfellow Gold Mining Company filed Articles of Incorporation with the State of Arizona (A07-0010).

On January 15, 1913, the Articles of Incorporation for Longfellow Gold Mining Company were filed with the State of California (A07-0010).

In 1914, a 25-stamp mill was located on the Longfellow Mine property (A03-0004). Although the mill was not identified as the Longfellow Mill, based on the location of the described property, it is assumed to be the same mill. The mill reportedly had “been running on good ore” in 1914 (A02-0003).

On July 16, 1915, Joseph Harten, et al., Plaintiffs, filed a Lis Pendens against Longfellow Gold Mining Company, Defendants, affecting the Longfellow Mine and Mill Site (A07-0011). [Note: No other documents concerning this lawsuit were located.]

During the 1920s, the Longfellow Mill was reportedly inactive (A02-0001).

In the 1930s, the Longfellow Mill was bought by the California Gold Lode Mines, Inc. of Redlands, California (A02-0001). The mill had a 100-ton daily capacity and added a marcy ball mill and a jaw crusher (A02-0001; A02-0011). In 1937, the mill started again, but during World War II, it was closed by federal edict (A02-0001).

Newspapers reported that in August 1935, “the intention was to run the mill on a 24-hour basis and work two shifts in the mine” (A02-0011). Most of the ore above the Longfellow’s main adit level would be conveyed to the mill through that opening and the other material from below the 300-foot level would be taken out through the Jacobs shaft (A02-0011).

In 1937, the California Gold Lode Mines, Ltd., who worked the Longfellow Mine between 1935 and 1936, were succeeded by Metallic Mines who worked the mine intermittently through 1938 (A03-0006). Both companies had a mill in operation part time on dump material where a 10-stamp mill crushed the dump rock (A03-0006). Only 2,000 tons were handled in 1938 and no further production was reported (A03-0006). Although the mill was not identified as the Longfellow Mill, based on the location of the described property, it is assumed to be the same mill.

On June 29, 1938, A. L. Blair, President, Metallic Mines, Lessee filed a Proof of Labor for the Paupers Dream Quartz Mine, Longfellow Mill Site, Toughnut Mine, Coolidge Mine, Metz, Metz No. 2, and Metz No. 3 Mining Claims for the year ending July 1, 1938 on behalf of A. G. Metz, owner (A04-0024). Work performed included opening two stopes; sinking and timbering 40 feet of shaft; installing water lines and pump in tunnel; constructing tailings dam, pump, and return line; and building roads (A04-0024).

On August 25, 1939, A. L. Blair filed a Proof of Labor for the Coolidge, Metz, Metz No. 2, Metz No. 3, Paupers Dream, Toughnut, and Longfellow Mill Site Mining Claims for the period between January 1, 1939 and September 1, 1939 on behalf of Metallic Mines and L. E. Snider, Lessees (A04-0026).

In 1940, the Longfellow Mill was described as a 150-ton, 10-stamp pebble mill using flotation and cyanidation (A03-0001). At that time, F. E. Yoakum was listed as lessee and L. E. Snider as superintendent (A03-0001).

On September 12, 1940, Longfellow Mines, Inc. filed Articles of Incorporation with the State of California (A07-0012).

In 1942, the owners of the mill and mine were listed as Longfellow Mines, Inc. from Groveland, California (A03-0002). The mine was described as a gold producer and the mill was still listed as a 150-ton, 10-stamp flotation and cyanide plant (A03-0002).

After World War II, milling reportedly started again, but only until 1948 (A02-0001). Reportedly, the mine had started to fill with water and it was too costly to continue operations (A02-0001, A02-0004).

On August 21, 1964, Orion L. Fenton filed a Proof of Labor Upon Mining Claim for the Metz, Metz No. 2, Metz No. 3, Coolidge, and Coolidge No. 2 which includes the Toughnut and Longfellow Mill Site for the year ending September 1, 1964 on behalf of Phil Calabrese (Agent for A. G. Metz, owner) (A04-0054). ### Longfellow Mine

According to historical documents, the Longfellow Mine was located in 1854 (A03-0003). The actual location certificate was not found.

On September 6, 1862, Stephen Hartny conveyed to D. F. Longfellow a certain house and lot situated in the town of Big Oak Flat (A07-0001). [Note: It is difficult to ascertain the location of the property as described in this deed.]

On June 1, 1867, E. M. Longfellow conveyed to D. F. Longfellow one-half of the Butler Quartz Vein (A07-0002).

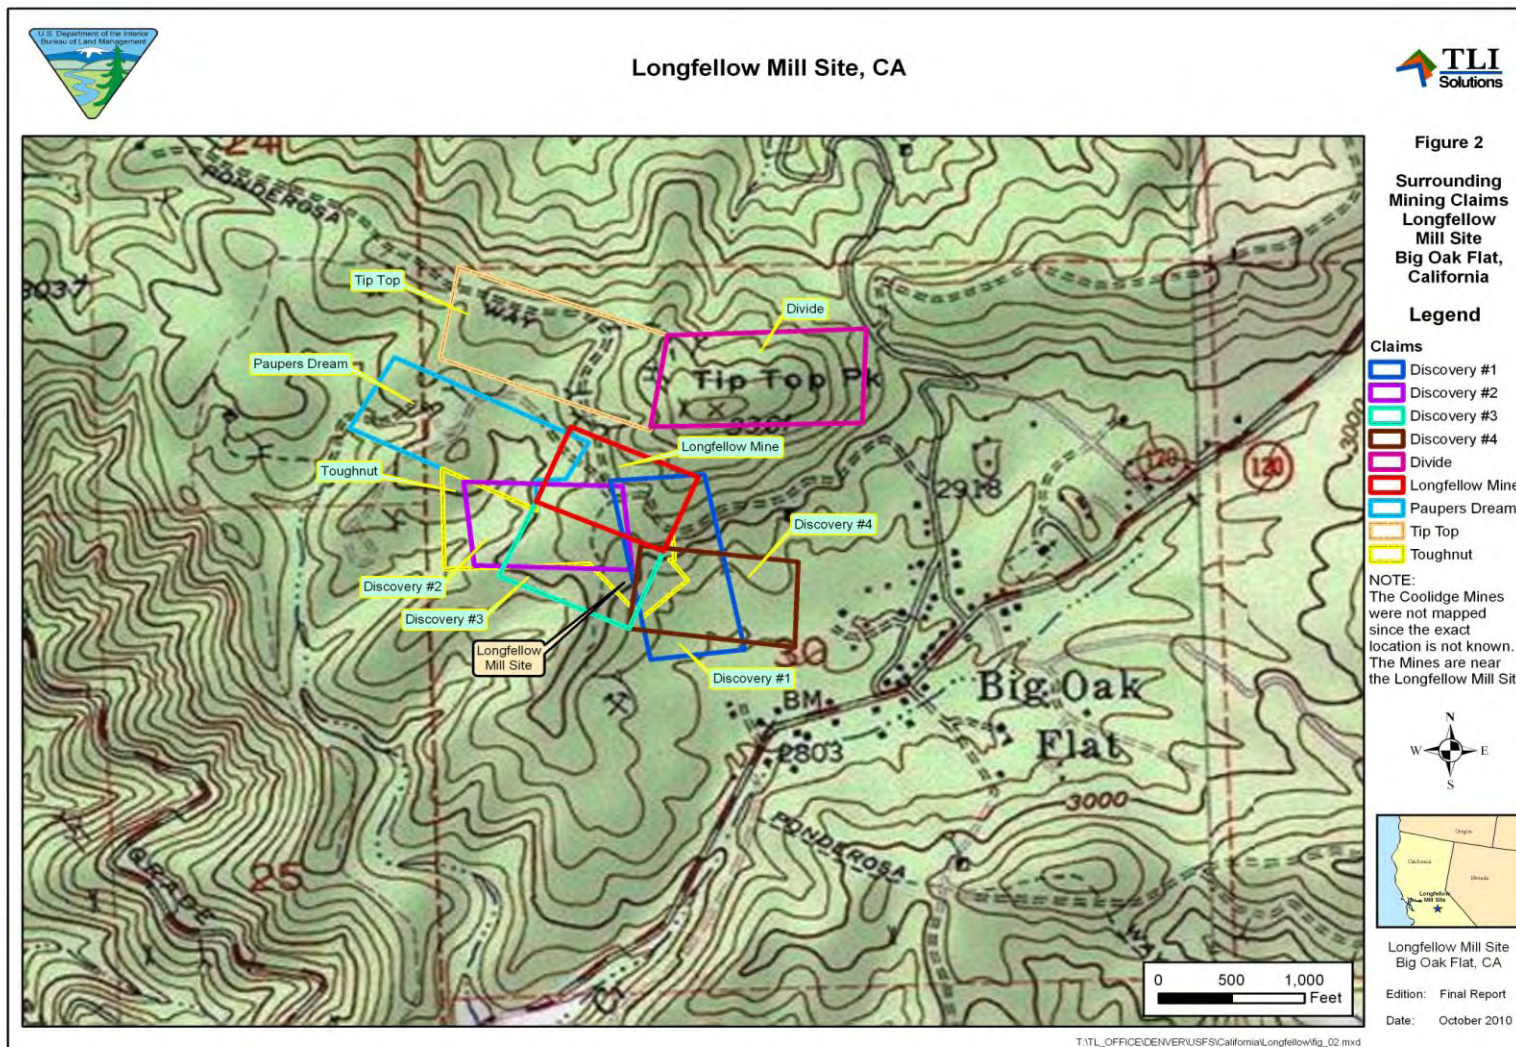

In 1875, the Longfellow quartz claim, formerly known as the Butler claim and owned by C. Mormon, yielded rock more suitable for the mortar than a crushing mill (A05-0001).

The period of principal activity at the Longfellow Mine was between 1889 and 1907 (A03-0006).

The Longfellow Mine was the only mine reported operating in the Big Oak Flat District in the State Mineralogist's report of 1888 (A02-0005, A03-0003). The ore in the mine was "pockety," which is to say that it was running in isolated masses in the quartz (A02-0005). The mine was developed by a 135-foot shaft with drifts 150 and 125 feet in an easterly and a westerly direction (A02-0005; A03-0003).

The 1892 Report of State Mineralogist indicated that the Longfellow Mine would be "started up" when it was pumped out (A02-0007).

By 1896, the Longfellow Mine had a 140-foot shaft that was sunk "some years ago" and was idle (A02-0009).

In July 1899, a shaft had been sunk to 450 feet in the Longfellow Mine (A03-0009).

On September 14, 1899, Monterey Oil Company was incorporated (A07-0007).

On December 4, 1899, Monterey Oil Company changed its corporate name to Monterey Oil Development Company (A07-0007).

On May 22, 1900, A. P. Dron petitioned the Superior Court of Tuolumne County, California to order an official survey and platting and to grant a deed to land in Big Oak Flat in the possession of A. P. Dron (A07-0004). The property consisted of 5 and 43/100 acres and was being used as a mill site by the Longfellow Mine (A07-0004). Improvements made to the property by A. P. Dron included a “slue” (sic) reservoir 40x100 feet, and a steam pump (A07-0004). [Note: Although the document was not dated, the date of May 22, 1900 is assumed based on subsequent documents referring to this petition.]

On May 22, 1900, a Judge of the Superior Court of Tuolumne County, California ordered the Surveyor of Tuolumne County, California to make an Official Survey and Plat of the land requested by A. P. Dron (A07-0005).

In September 1900, Andrew P. Dron requested the Judge of the Superior Court of Tuolumne County, California grant deed to the property petitioned for on May 22, 1900 (A07-0006). [Note: The date was incomplete on the document.]

On January 28, 1901, Jon L. D. Roberts, President, Monterey Oil Development Company filed Second Amended Articles of Incorporation of the Monterey Oil Development Company amending the stockholders of the company (A07-0007).

On May 26, 1902, Monterey Oil Development Company changed its corporate name to Longfellow Consolidated Gold Mining Company (A07-0009).

On January 15, 1913, the Articles of Incorporation for Longfellow Gold Mining Company were filed with the State of California (A07-0010).

Between 1913 and 1914, some gold ore was produced and milled at the Longfellow Mine (A03-0006). By 1914, the Longfellow Mine was operating on a small scale (A03-0004). Two men were reportedly employed by Longfellow Gold Mining Company to keep water out of the mine during this time (A03-0004). Also by this time, a shaft was sunk to a depth of 900 feet (A03-0004).

On July 16, 1915, Joseph Harten, et al., Plaintiffs, filed a Lis Pendens against Longfellow Gold Mining Company, Defendants, affecting the Longfellow Mine and Mill Site (A07-0011). [Note: No other documents concerning this lawsuit were located.]

Between 1935 and 1936, California Gold Lode Mines, Ltd. performed work on the Longfellow Mine (A03-0006).

In 1937, the California Gold Lode Mines, Ltd., who worked the Longfellow Mine between 1935 and 1936, were succeeded by Metallic Mines who worked the mine intermittently through 1938 (A03-0006). Both companies had a mill in operation part time on dump material where a 10-stamp mill crushed the dump rock (A03-0006). Only 2,000 tons were handled in 1938 and no further production was reported (A03-0006).

On September 12, 1940, Longfellow Mines, Inc. filed Articles of Incorporation with the State of California (A07-0012).

In 1949, ore was reportedly shipped from the Longfellow Mine (A03-0007).

The last assessment occurred in 1990 by Muriel Calabrese and the mining claim is considered closed (A02-0013).

3.0 POTENTIALLY RESPONSIBLE PARTIES

This section describes the information and rationale used to identify parties associated with the Site as PRPs. Under CERCLA § 107(a), 42 U.S.C. § 9607(a), the following persons are liable for response costs incurred in the cleanup of a site:

- the owner and operator of a ... facility...
- any person who at the time of disposal . . . owned or operated any facility at which hazardous substances were disposed of,
- any person who by contract, agreement, or otherwise arranged for disposal or treatment or . . . transport for disposal or treatment of hazardous substances owned or possessed by such person, by any other party or entity, at any facility owned or operated by another party or entity and containing such hazardous substances, and
- any person who accepts or accepted any hazardous substances for transport to disposal or treatment facilities . . . or sites selected by such person from which there is a release or a threatened release which causes the incurrence of response costs . . .

PRPs are identified according to the CERCLA owner/operator liability standards, i.e., the parties are either current owners of property or had some type of ownership interest at the time of hazardous substance disposal, or operated the facility at the time of hazardous substance disposal. The parties are also evaluated using the generator and transporter liability standards.

It was assumed that disposal of a hazardous substance occurred during milling operations (i.e., actual operations or implication of operations including obtaining leases, etc.); when mill wastes or disturbed areas were identified on the property. Interim owners and operators associated with passive releases occurring after milling wastes were placed on the surface are also identified within this section.

Some courts have found that persons or entities holding a possessory interest in property, such as lessees, who do not have an ownership interest were nevertheless liable as owners of property under CERCLA § 107(a) under the circumstances in which the lessee exercises management control over the property.<sup>1</sup> However, these parties have typically been found liable as operators. For purposes of this report, parties having this possessory interest are identified as owners/operators under this section.

The basis of liability for a party (i.e., past operator) is noted parenthetically following the name of the party.

All individual PRPs identified who were involved in the Site prior to 1953 were presumed dead. No research was conducted on those individual PRPs. This research approach was based on using the assumption that the individual was at least 18 years of age when involved with the Site and had a life expectancy of 75 years.

3.2.2 California Gold Lode Mines, Inc. / California Gold Lode Mines, Ltd. (Past Owner/Operator)

In the 1930s, the Longfellow Mill was bought by the California Gold Lode Mines, Inc. of Redlands, California (A02-0001). The mill had a 100-ton daily capacity and added a marcy ball mill and a jaw crusher (A02-0001; A02-0011). In 1937, the mill started again, but during World War II, it was closed by federal edict (A02-0001).

Newspapers reported that in August 1935, “the intention was to run the mill on a 24-hour basis and work two shifts in the mine” (A02-0011). Most of the ore above the Longfellow’s main adit level would be conveyed to the mill through that opening and the other material from below the 300-foot level would be taken out through the Jacobs shaft (A02-0011).

In 1937, the California Gold Lode Mines, Ltd., who worked the Longfellow Mine between 1935 and 1936, were succeeded by Metallic Mines who worked the mine intermittently through 1938 (A03-0006). Both companies had a mill in operation part time on dump material where a 10-stamp mill crushed the dump rock (A03-0006). Only 2,000 tons were handled in 1938 and no further production was reported (A03-0006). Although the mill was not identified as the Longfellow Mill, based on the location of the described property, it is assumed to be the same mill.

SUMMARY OF WORK AND SOURCES CONTACTED

APPENDIX B

SUMMARY OF WORK AND SOURCES CONTACTED

1.0 SUMMARY OF WORK

Appendix B contains a summary of work conducted for this report and provides details on TLI's efforts to obtain information and records related to the Longfellow Mill Site.

1.1 PROJECT OBJECTIVES

The object of this Delivery Order was to conduct ownership and operational research, collect corporate information about specific parties involved in the Longfellow Mill Site, assess the viability of parties involved in the Longfellow Mill Site, and prepare a PRP search report providing the results of this research and analysis.

1.2 PROJECT APPROACH

The tasks completed in the development of this report, the methodology used for completing each task, and any assumptions made are discussed below.

1.2.1 Task 1 – Manage Project

TLI prepared a work plan and cost proposal for the Longfellow Mill Site PRP search task order. This work plan described the activities TLI performed in completing this task order and the cost estimate included an estimate of the hours and dollars needed to perform each of these activities.

TLI communicated on a regular basis with the Weston primary contact throughout the implementation of this task order. TLI submitted monthly progress reports to the Weston primary contact on the progress of the task order including the status of the project and percent of the project technically completed, and any difficulties encountered during the previous month.

1.2.2 Task 2 – Records Review

TLI obtained all files that Weston and BLM had available on the Site to gain familiarity with the Site and to ensure that previous research work was not duplicated.

TLI then requested copies of documents from the files of other Federal, State, County, and municipal government agencies for information pertaining to the Site.

TLI researchers also reviewed and collected relevant documents from the Internet, EPA Region 9, USGS, California Department of Toxic Substances Control, California Historical Society, California State Library, and Colorado School of Mines Arthur Lakes Library.

1.2.3 Task 3 – Title Research

Prior to initiating the title search, TLI's field researcher reviewed relevant Weston and BLM files for Site location, Site description, and prior title search work that had been conducted. Title research was conducted at the Tuolumne County Recorder's and Assessor's Office.

1.2.4 Task 4 – Develop Operational History

TLI organized the documents collected during Tasks 2 and 3 and compiled the Site operational and ownership history of the Site.

From the Site operational and ownership history, TLI identified PRPs associated with the Site.

1.2.5 Task 5 – Corporate Research

TLI conducted corporate research on the corporate PRPs identified for the Site.

1.2.6 Task 6 – Physical Address of Individual PRPs

TLI conducted Internet research to locate current addresses for the individual PRPs identified for the Site after 1953.

1.2.7 Task 7 – Prepare Evidence Summaries

Compiling information from the operational and ownership histories, TLI prepared evidence summaries for each identified PRP associated with the Site. These summaries are included in Section 3.0 of the report.

1.2.7 Task 8 – Draft and Final Reports

TLI assembled the information obtained from Tasks 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7 into a draft and final potentially responsible party search report.
